Good morning,

Thank you for your recent consultation.

I have reviewed the following document:

- Letter entitled "Proposed construction of a reservoir at Farthing Common, Lyminge, Folkestone – EIA Screening Request under Reg 5(1) of the Town & Country Planning (EIA) Regs 2011" from Tim Pearce of Atkins to Shepway District Council (ref: 5145084) dated 5 May 2017.

The letter seeks to consider whether the proposed construction of a reservoir would be subject to Environmental Impact Assessment on the basis of the potential for likely significant effects. The letter considers the proposal in terms of potential effects on ecology and the historic environment only. No consideration is presented on the topic of land contamination or wider environmental issues. However, given the current use of the site for potable water supply, it is deemed unlikely that land contamination would be an issue of sufficient magnitude to warrant EIA. Whilst land contamination is not an EIA issue for this project, land contamination issues will still need to be considered through the planning system.

Regards,

Lisa
